

THE SAINTS EXPRESS

The Employee Newsletter of Lurleen B. Wallace Community College

September 2017

Levitzke earns yellow belt in Six Sigma

Shannon Levitzke, coordinator of institutional effectiveness and quality, recently completed requirements to be certified by the American Society for Quality (ASQ) as a Six Sigma Yellow Belt, indicating a proficiency in and comprehension of Six Sigma principles and practices.

“Earning an ASQ certification is more than a great accomplishment – it’s a formal recognition of professionals that they have demonstrated an understanding of, and a commitment to, quality practices in their field,” said ASQ Chair Cecilia Kimberlin.

Certified individuals understand the fundamentals of Six Sigma and can help advance the concept and potential of using Six Sigma tools and methodologies within an organization.

The certification exam included information on Six Sigma and Lean principles; team building; project identification and stakeholder analysis; project management and communications; statistics; data collection and measurement techniques; data analysis; and improvement and control techniques.

Three celebrate 30 years of service

LBWCC President Dr. Herb Riedel, left, congratulates employees for their longevity with the College. Receiving a 30-year pin were Alan Cobb, network administrator; Lynne Dayton, director of finance and comptroller; and Greg Aplin, associate dean for instructional and information technology.

Taylor marks 25 years

Gene Taylor, right, maintenance technician, marks 25 years of service with LBW. He was recognized by Dr. Herb Riedel, president, at the college-wide meeting in August.

Inside this issue...

President's Message	2
Longevity photos	2-3
Employee News	3-5
Baby Faces	3
New Employees	6
Retirements	7
Foundations	9

The LBWCC Saints Express is produced quarterly to recognize the accomplishments of employees.

Submit information to Renée LeMaire, PIO/Director of Marketing.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Where has the summer gone? It seems like it just flew by—but, of course, summer in South Alabama is still far from over!

Dr. Herbert H.J. Riedel
LBWCC President

Nevertheless, we have begun a new fall semester. After the busy summer season of preparation, planning, orientation, and registration of students, by the first two weeks of September we usually settle in to our new academic year.

This year, we have another major exciting event planned for the first week of October: We will be hosting an on-site SACSCOC committee, consisting of nine highly-qualified community college professionals — our colleagues — from institutions in North and South Carolina, Mississippi, Texas, and Georgia. I know you are all looking forward to meeting these dedicated individuals, helping them accomplish their tasks, and making them feel welcome at our College.

I am very pleased with the work of the QEP committee and anticipate much benefit for our students, manifesting as higher success rates, greater retention, and lower costs due to an advising process that will help students identify and focus on a chosen major.

I had the opportunity to join faculty and others in learning how to use the AVISO software platform for enhanced communication with students, advisors, and career coaches, and integrating this with our “intrusive advising” model.

There has been an investment on the part of the College in our plan and I believe it will pay off in terms of higher enrollment as a result of better retention.

This year has again seen a funding cut for LBWCC. In 2007, our state funding was $9,323,204. This year, it is $7,188,848. Since 2013, enrollment increased 3.2 percent, but funding decreased after adjusting for inflation.

Our enrollment has gone up, even as ACCS enrollment declined in the state. Slight tuition increases have not made up for these funding cuts. Consequently, we are more dependent than ever on tuition and fees from enrollment to fund our operations and continue to provide unrivaled value for our students.

As we have adopted “intrusive advising,” we now must also pursue “intrusive recruiting.” What I mean is that everyone at the College must see recruiting students as a primary goal. Career/technical faculty have long understood this need for their programs. As a former academic (math) faculty member, I know that faculty in the university transfer fields have not typically been given this expectation. And when I was a faculty member, I would not have known how to recruit students.

This has to change in our current fiscal environment. Please note, if you are an academic faculty member and your classes are full, you still have an obligation to the College to help build enrollment of our traditional college-going student population. We will help you learn how to do this.

I am truly eager to reach more potential students and open their eyes to the many life-enriching options open to them at LBW. My very best wishes for a successful and enjoyable fall semester!

20 Years of Service

Celebrating 20 years of service are, from left, Katie O’Neal, history/sociology instructor; Debra Moody, director of business services; Wendy Johnson, student services coordinator/advisor, MacArthur Campus/Luverne Center; Susan Evans, learning resources assistant; and Dr. Shane Evans, biology/physical science faculty.

15 Years of Service

Receiving 15-year service pins this year are Kristy White, chair of the Language/Fine Arts Division, English/speech faculty; Peige Josey, dean of administrative services and Greenville Campus director; John Carpenter, accounting/business faculty; and Chuck White, information technology specialist/instruction.

LBWCC's QEP

ORIENTATION ADVISING RETENTION SUCCESS

SACSCOC On-Site Visit
October 2-5, 2017

EMPLOYEE NEWS

The cast of "Penny for Your Thoughts," the summer production of the Greenville Community Theater included, from left, Harriett Foshee as Gertrude, Jessica Bell as Buffy, Cierra Oswald as Jessica, Leith Green as Rick, Mollie Waters as Myrtle, and Hannah Styron as Penny.

Waters enjoys eventful summer

Mollie Waters, had an exciting summer. First, she traveled to Rome in May as one of two community college faculty members selected by Auburn University to receive study abroad training at the University of Arkansas's Rome Center.

She was in Rome to observe for a week, then spent an extra 10 days in Italy exploring the area. In addition to Rome, she visited Florence, Venice, Naples, Pompeii, Postiano, and Orvieto.

In July, she received a first-place award from the Alabama Press Association for her series about PTSD that was featured in The Greenville Standard.

On July 15, she performed in the Greenville Community Theatre's summer dinner show "Penny for Your Thoughts" by Scott Haan. She played Myrtle, the main character's (Penny's) nerdy ego.

BABY FACES

Congratulations to LeAnn Judah, mathematics and science division chair and biology faculty, on the birth of her daughter, Rosemary Judah McLendon. She was born May 3, 2017, weighed 7 pounds 5 ounces and measured 18 inches long.

Congratulations to Lynne Dayton, director of finance and comptroller, on the birth of her granddaughter, Margaret McCall Patterson. She was born June 1, 2017, weighing 7 pounds 7 ounces and measuring 21 inches long.

10 Years of Service

Recognized for 10 years of service are, from left, April Wise, division chair for nursing, nursing faculty; Pat Senn, mathematics faculty; Melissa Reeves, administrative assistant for the Luverne Center; LeAnn Judah, division chair for mathematics and science, biology faculty; and Kathy Lowery, administrative assistant to the Greenville Campus director, admissions and records clerk.

Congratulations to Kelley Nolen, Andalusia Campus coordinator for Student Support Services, on the birth of her daughter, Emily Ruth Nolen. She was born Aug. 22, 2017, weighing 7 pounds 12 ounces and measuring 22 inches long.

EMPLOYEE NEWS

Hains 32 miles from walking goal

Mark Hains, forest technology faculty, returned to the trail during the summer months and completed all but 32 miles of his journey to become the first known person to walk the entire U.S./Mexico Border.

Braving the summer heat with day temperatures hovering above 100 degrees, he arrived on the shores of the Pacific Ocean during summer break.

He plans to complete the center 32 miles of El Camino Del Diablo in November during Thanksgiving break. The cooler weather will help him tolerate the last leg of the journey through some of the most remote and arid terrain of the Sonoran Desert in Arizona.

He also hopes to complete Border Walk, a book he is writing of his journey, and send it to print in November.

Jones, Davis complete training

Cynthia Jones, IT specialist and adjunct instructor, and Joy Davis, medical office administration faculty, both completed the Microsoft Office specialist certification in Word 2016, with Jones also completing the PowerPoint certification.

“LBWCC will be upgrading to Microsoft Office and begin using it to teach courses during the 2017-2018 school year,” said Davis. “All Medical Office Administration students are required to take the MOS Word certification upon completion of the OAD125 Word Processing course, which will be offered on-the substance and value of business and technology courses.

Cynthia Jones

Joy Davis

Once students learn the system, they progress through coursework and curriculum with greater ease and efficiency. They can focus on course content, not on the associated computing. In addition, it validates digital literacy prior to entering a course or program.

line Spring 2018.”

These latest versions of Microsoft Office System optimizes course effectiveness and classroom efficiency, and accelerates student progress in courses and programs. It also strengthens

Achievement and leadership

Kelley Nolan, Student Support Services Andalusia Campus Coordinator, is now a Gallup-Certified Strengths Coach.

As a Gallup Strength Coach, Nolan is fully qualified to provide strength-based coaching to anyone, including individuals, teams and managers.

Kelley Nolan

Strengths coaching is about focusing on what others do well instead of fixating on their weaknesses. As a strengths coach, she can help people do what they do best every day to improve their quality of life in and outside of work.

Dr. Arlene Davis, associate dean of institutional advancement, is serving as president of the Council for Alabama Resource Development (CARD) for this year.

Dr. Arlene Davis

Jennifer Hall, adult education specialist/continuing education coordinator, was elected as Member-at-Large to the Alabama Association for Public and Continuing and Adult Education (AAPCAE).

She was also appointed by Gov. Kay Ivey to serve on the Board of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) for Region 6, known as Southeast Alabama Works.

Jennifer Hall

EMPLOYEE NEWS

LBWCC sponsors Andalusia Chamber breakfast

LBWCC was the breakfast sponsor in July for the Andalusia Area Chamber of Commerce. Pictured are, from left, LBWCC President Dr. Herb Riedel, Maggie Jones and Chrissie Duffy with the Chamber; Dr. Arlene Davis, Christy Hawkins, Renée LeMaire, and Blair Hancock, all in the Institutional Advancement department; Dean of Student Affairs Jason Jessie; and Jennifer Hall, adult education specialist and continuing education coordinator.

Bass, Wicker work with SVMA

The LBWCC Student Veterans and Military Association (SVMA), co-sponsored by Tina Wicker, left, administrative assistant for financial aid, and Donna Bass, financial aid director, made a donation in July to the Covington Region Honor Flight from funds raised through the 5K Color Run event.

PTK 10-year advisor pins

Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society recently recognized LeAnn Judah, Beta Pi Nu Chapter in Greenville, and Heather Owen, Alpha Beta Eta Chapter in Andalusia/Opp, with pins for serving 10 years as chapter advisors.

Innovation Champions nominations due by Sept. 22

Nominate a colleague (or yourself) for the 2017-2018 Innovation Champions Award, which recognizes innovative projects and programs designed or implemented by employees at LBWCC.

The recipient selected by the review committee will be submitted as the LBWCC John & Suanne Roueche Excellence Awards winner in conjunction with the League for Innovation in the Community College.

With the award, the recipient will attend the Innovations

Conference in National Harbor, Md.

The conference covers several tracks of interest to faculty and staff, such as learning and teaching, leadership and organization, student success, basic skills and developmental education, and workforce preparation and development.

Guidelines and the nomination form are available from Dr. Shannon Levitzke, coordinator for institutional effectiveness and quality, and are due no later than Sept. 22, 2017.

NEW EMPLOYEES

ANDALUSIA CAMPUS

Andrew Culbreth was selected to fill the vacant position of history instructor, a position he formerly held on a temporary basis.

He holds a Master of Arts Degree in History from The University of Alabama at Birmingham and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Political Science from Virginia Tech. His background includes teaching as an Adjunct History Instructor at Jefferson Davis Community College and Huntington College and most recently serving as a History Instructor for LBWCC in a one-year, temporary position.

Anthony Sanders was selected as an English instructor.

He earned a Master of Arts Degree in Humanities from California State University and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Fine Arts from Burlington College.

His background includes teaching English, Literature, and Humanities full-time as an Instructor for LBWCC as well as a previous experience as an Adjunct English Instructor at both LBWCC and Harrison College.

Christy Hawkins has transitioned to the position of administrative assistant for Institutional Advancement and foundations.

She earned a Bachelor of Business Administration Degree from Faulkner University and an Associate in Science Degree from LBWCC.

Her previous work experience includes more than 14 years of administrative/clerical experience, including prior experience in the Office of Institutional Advancement at LBWCC.

Andrew Culbreth

Noelle Worley

Noelle Worley is the new administrative assistant in the Human Resources Department.

She holds an Associate in Arts degree and an Office Administration certificate from LBWCC. She has more than five years experience working in administrative/clerical positions, such as office manager. She also has experience safeguarding confidential information.

Darleen Hogg is now serving as secretary in Instructional and Information Technology.

She has more than 16 years clerical experience and working in education, including the recent position as LBWCC's financial affairs assistant cashier for the Andalusia Campus.

Darlene Hogg

GREENVILLE CAMPUS

Tara Dumas accepted the position of Greenville Campus Coordinator for Student Services.

Dumas earned a Master of Science Degree in Continuing Education with a major in counseling/psychology from the University of West Alabama. She also holds a Master of Science Degree from Troy University and a Bachelor of Arts Degree from The University of Alabama.

Her background includes five years of full-time experience in postsecondary education.

Starla Jones accepted the Mathematics Instructor position in Greenville.

Tara Dumas

Starla Jones

She holds a Master of Education Degree in Mathematics from Alabama State University as well as a Master of Music Degree from Auburn University. She obtained a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education with a major in mathematics and a minor in music from Troy University.

Her previous work experience includes teaching Mathematics in both private and public education and serving as a Mathematics Adjunct and Dual Enrollment Instructor for LBWCC.

Mathew Dittmann is the new History Instructor in Greenville.

Dittmann holds a Master of Arts Degree in History from Armstrong State University and a Bachelor of Arts Degree with a major in anthropology and a minor in history from the University of South Carolina.

He has more than three years of experience teaching history and working in post-secondary education.

Mathew Dittmann

MACARTHUR CAMPUS

Joshua Roper is now a nursing instructor on the Greenville Campus.

He earned a Master of Science Degree in Nursing and a Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing from the Western Governors University.

He obtained an Associate in Science Degree in Nursing and a Practical Nursing Certificate from

Joshua Roper

LBWCC.

His background includes three years of nursing experience, including serving as a Clinical Instructor for LBWCC.

RETIREMENTS

LBWCC Vice President Emeritus Dr. Jim Krudop, far right, enjoyed a large turnout at a retirement reception in Andalusia.

Krudop retires with 39 years

“I said a long time ago, this College is not about the buildings; it’s about the people. And the people here are the best,” said Dr. Jim Krudop, who retires with a long, distinguished career of nearly 40 years at LBWCC.

He started at LBWCC in 1978 when the College was very young, and served with four different presidents: Founding President Dr. William H. McWhorter, Seth M. Hammett, Dr. Edward Meadows, and Dr. Herbert H.J. Riedel.

Krudop’s years at LBW included serving in several capacities, including twice as interim president, dean of student affairs, dean of students/administration, dean of student development, dean of the College, dean of the College/second in command, vice president and dean of administrative and instructional services, vice president and MacArthur campus director, and vice president and Greenville campus director.

During his career, he also served as interim president of Reid State Technical College in 2000.

In May 2017, he was conferred the title of Vice President Emeritus by the Alabama Community College System Board of Trustees.

At a retirement reception on the Greenville campus, his base for the last 10 years, he was presented an engraved circle in his name for the last available space on the Circle of Honor, a fundraising recognition display in the Technology Building.

On the Andalusia campus, faculty and staff joined numerous members of the community and from throughout the state to recognize Krudop’s accomplishments through the years.

From the LBWCC family, Dr. Herb Riedel presented an engraved Cross pen. He was also presented recognition from U.S. Rep. Martha Roby’s official remarks on the Congressional Floor regarding his contributions to education in Alabama, and a Certificate of Appreciation from the City of Andalusia.

“It was so outstanding and wonderful,” Krudop said. “I enjoyed seeing several people from Camp ASCCA (Alabama’s Special Camp for Children and Adults), the Easter Seals director out of Montgomery, Dr. Young from Wallace State, and others, in addition to lots of cards and notes.”

Right now, he is purposefully trying not to commit on how to spend his time, although he is looking forward to a planned spring cruise on the Rhine River.

“There are a lot of opportunities, and I know a few I would like to be involved with, but I’m trying to be careful and not get overwhelmed.”

As he closes the door on this significant chapter of his life, Krudop fondly remembers his years and those with whom he worked.

“My heart is filled with gratitude for the opportunity of being a part of the LBWCC family for almost 40 years. I have been blessed to be associated with individuals who deeply believe in student success. Thanks to Dr. Riedel for his innovative ideas and encouraging leadership. My very best to LBWCC, the college that cares.”

Taylor leaves with 25 years

Gene Taylor is looking forward to retirement after completing 25 years with LBWCC.

Born and raised in Key West, Fla., he came to this area while traveling with his band in the mid-’70s.

“Yep, I had hair back then,” he said. “When it turned gray, it turned lose.”

After four years of playing music all through the south, his on-the-road-days were behind him, and he settled in Geneva.

“While working for Clinton Industries, I started looking for the right place to go to school for some hands-on training. The MacArthur campus offered what I was looking for and I started the electronics program in 1989.”

After graduating from all three programs, which included industrial electricity, communications electronics, and industrial electronics, he started working with a contractor in Geneva County.

In 1992, he started working on the MacArthur campus as a lab facilitator and remained in the electronics area for a few years before moving into the maintenance department.

Two decades later, and with his 25 years in the system, he is ready to start his next full-time job – five grandchildren.

“It’s time to enjoy more time with my children and grandchildren, and I’m fortunate that several old-school musicians have asked to keep playing music locally,” he said.

“Once again, I’ll get off the ‘road’ and won’t miss that drive back and forth from Geneva. And I’ll get to spend a little more time on the farm, too!”

Looking back through the years, he speaks highly of those with whom he worked.

“There are just a few employees still here from the time when I started,” he said.

“Have there been highs and lows? Yep, there have been many of each, but now is my time to pass the torch, and I hope the new maintenance employees do well for all. Thanks to all who were good to me for so long, I’ll miss you. But to my surprise – to my great surprise – it’s easier to retire than I thought it would be!”

RETIREMENTS

Hubbard retires with 31 years teaching at LBWCC

Dr. Steve Hubbard loves to teach. Even though he is officially retiring as full-time English faculty at LBWCC after 31 years, he plans to continue teaching for a while as an adjunct instructor.

"I've loved my colleagues through the years and the mental stimulation of our conversations," he said. "I enjoy the give and take of ideas. I like the possibilities of guiding students in their own intellectual growth and, sometimes, in character development. I think we do, in some ways, educate the whole person."

Technological advances have been some of the changes he has seen in education. These have included going from, as a young teacher, typing a test on a typewriter to today's use of computers for writing and storage of documents.

"Another big change was, when I came here in 1984, it was okay for faculty to smoke in their offices," which is vastly different today, he said.

His tenure saw the expansion of the college, both in terms of enrollment numbers and in locations.

"I think the library holdings are considerably better than they were when I started. We have a much richer collection," he said. "Online possibilities have improved what we can do, such as through the Alabama Virtual Library, which has also saved LBW considerable dollars."

He said he has enjoyed making recommendations for book purchases through the years. Many of these have related to literary studies, but others have related more to other disciplines such as history.

"LBW has maintained a solid, positive academic reputation. We've always tried to give our students as good as they would get at a major university."

Since he first moved to Andalusia, Hubbard continues to be impressed with LBW's and the community's support of the arts.

"I had never seen so much art in a relatively small place as I did when I came to Andalusia. We have impressive theater and music here; productions, including the Ensemble's, have always been quality performances," he said.

"I think the arts are a way of life here. The College plays an essential part. I don't think this area would be as strong in the arts and humanities – and in the business community – without LBW."

He appreciates the College's support of him and the things he's wanted to do through the years, such as taking leave two different years to work on his doctorate, working with professional organizations, organizing major conferences, and being involved in the community.

He served six years as treasurer and seven years as executive secretary of the Association of College English Teachers in Alabama (ACETA). He also served as president and continues his involvement on the steering committee.

He also served five years as the representative of Region 3 on the Standing Committee on Affiliates of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE). Region 3 includes most of the Southeastern United States.

In 2010, he helped bring together "Our Story, Our Song," a conference of congregational song funded mostly by grants and contributions. The event spanned three days at several venues throughout Andalusia. He is again working to lead a similar conference March 1-3, 2018, and currently is completing a grant proposal to the Alabama Council on the Arts for funding assistance.

The future may include some writing, provided he finds subjects he wants to research and write about, he said.

"Being mentored as a young teacher by people like Bev Smith, Jerry Padgett, Eric Lidh, and Lou Rich gave me some of the best experiences of my whole time at LBW," he said. "In the years since, I hope I have been able to give as well to my younger colleagues."

"It's not goodbye because I'll still be around. I hope to continue to make contributions to LBW as I can."

Patterson plans to stay busy during retirement years

Lisa Patterson retired from LBWCC with 23 years of service in the two-year college system and 13 years at LBWCC.

She started her service in the system in 1994 at Calhoun Community College, then her family relocated to Andalusia in 2000. She started at LBWCC in 2004 on the MacArthur Campus. In the last several years, she worked on the Andalusia campus in the Institutional Advancement department where she served as advertising and foundation specialist.

"Ms. Patterson has been a valued employee at LBWCC," said Dr. Jim Krudop, LBWCC vice president emeritus. "Her enthusiasm, attention to details, planning skills, and glowing personality have enhanced our College."

While at LBWCC, she was a member of the Alabama Community College System Public Relations Association (ACCSPPRA) and served in several capacities, including president.

Dr. Chris Franklin, who served with Patterson on the ACCSPRA board, said, "I had the pleasure of working with Lisa Patterson for close to 10 years. During that time, we planned professional development events, presented at national conferences, and worked to promote our colleges, our system and the work of our peers. Through it all,

Lisa displayed professionalism and dedication."

Her retirement provides the opportunity for national service through her membership in the Luncheon Pilot Club of Andalusia. In July, she was elected as an executive committee representative of Pilot International for the Midwest and Kansas-Missouri Districts.

Future plans include spending more time with family, Pilot-related travel, and selling her Andalusia home and moving closer to the gulf to spend more time sailing.

"I will forever be grateful for the wonderful friendships formed at LBW, in the college system, in the local communities and to the College for having provided professional and personal development and the privilege, honor, and joy of being a part of the wonderful LBW experiences and accomplishments," she said.

FOUNDATIONS

Mini-Grant applications due by September 29

A total of $15,000 is available for those who apply for a Mini-Grant, funded by the LBWCC Foundation and the DMSTC Foundation.

In order to get any portion of the available funds, applications must be submitted to Christy Hawkins, administrative assistant to institutional advancement and foundations, by the end of the day on Sept. 29. No email submissions will be accepted.

All faculty, staff, and administration who have been employed at least one year are eligible to apply.

Proposals are limited to one page, plus the required cover sheet and cost quotes, if applicable. No other attachments will be accepted or reviewed.

Be sure to include a summary briefly describing the project or program. Narrative should describe the impact, project timeline, and budget.

Awards will be named at the "College that Cares" employee appreciation breakfast on Oct. 20, 2017.

'College that Cares' internal campaign now underway

For several years, LBWCC employees have generously supported the foundations through payroll deduction.

Funds raised through the "College that Cares" internal campaign are helping to support the general fund or grow established scholarships in the LBWCC Foundation and/or the DMSTC Foundation as directed on the payroll deduction form.

"By giving, we show our support of the College foundations," said Dr. Arlene Davis, associate dean of institutional advancement. "Employees are encouraged to increase their current level of giving or begin to give in full dollar amounts to either or both of the foundations. There is no required amount, just full dollars. Any amount is valued and appreciated."

Employees have the option of directing their donations to be applied to a particular scholarship. Several scholarships are only partially endowed, so this is an opportunity to help fully fund a scholarship. Scholarships can be awarded to students one year following full endowment.

Employees beginning a payroll deduction or increasing their monthly amount will receive a t-shirt in recognition of their donation and be entered in a drawing for a weekend retreat at the beach, courtesy of Mary Ann Hudson's generosity in offering the use of her beach house in Panama City, Fla.

All employees who have donated to either foundation this year are invited to the "College that Cares" breakfast on Oct. 20, 2017, in the Jeff Bishop Student Center in Andalusia.

The breakfast and t-shirts are made possible through a fund established by CCB Community Bank, Covington Electric Cooperative, and Southeast Gas especially for this purpose.

For more information, contact Davis at ext. 2390 or Christy Hawkins at 2248. All donations are tax deductible.

LBWCC Foundation
presents the 12th annual
Camellia City Classic Golf Tournament
September 13, 2017

at Cambrian Ridge
(a Robert Trent Jones Trail)

Deadline to register is Sept. 6th.
For more information, contact
Christy Hawkins at ext. 2248

DMSTC Foundation Sporting Clay Shoot October 28, 2017

Shoal River Sporting Clays
3985 Hwy 90 East, Crestview, Fla.

(For more information, contact Christy Hawkins, ext. 2248)